> Every summer my family spends a week at a cottage on the Cape. It's the same house where my grandmother and her sisters used to spend their summers as children, and it is full of amazing family memories.

Jennifer focuses in the area of tax compliance for individuals, estates, trusts and businesses. She leverages her law degree to assist clients in solving complex tax problems as well as offering strategic tax advice. She often works directly with the Internal Revenue Service and other regulatory bodies to resolve client issues.

Outside The Office

Jennifer spends most of her time with her husband, raising their two children in Stoneham. In addition, she enjoys traveling to Vermont to spend time with family and friends.
