“My favorite food is my wife’s fried eggplant with homemade gravy. Yes, I said gravy. Marrying into a very Italian family, I learned there is red and brown gravy. Sauce does not exist!

Kris leads the firm’s Real Estate Group and has over twenty-one years of public accounting experience. He provides tax, consulting, and business advisory services for closely held and family businesses in various industries. Kris has specific expertise in real estate and partnership tax and works with a diverse group of clients and property types, including commercial, multi-family, and retail, whose ownership ranges from family-owned to institutional investor. His experience includes tax planning and compliance, deal structuring, and joint venture negotiations. He advises his clients on various issues, including property sales, tax deferrals, day-to-day management, and complex partnership tax issues.

Outside The Office

Kris lives with his wife and three sons in North Andover. In his free time, Kris volunteers his time coaching his sons’ teams. Kris can also be found tending to his vegetable garden or playing in the yard with his sons. If there is any remaining time, he tries to get in a round of golf.
